Background
Funds have been established for the Fraser Lecture Series Fund. This endowment is one of six different endowments generously provided from the estate of Gordon H. and Alice C. Fraser. The purpose of this endowment is to support lectures, seminars, symposia or workshops in the natural, social and applied sciences, with emphasis on the Health and Life Sciences. Individuals of international and national reputation shall be invited to the University to share their knowledge with the campus community and help improve existing programs or initiate new programs. This endowment will provide distribution for the spending in Fiscal Year 2016. This will be an annual award of approximately $32,000.

Proposals
A call for proposals will be made late winter quarter for an event/project the spring quarter of the following year or the fall quarter of the year after. The timeline is adjustable if needed to accommodate the schedule of the speaker(s). Faculty from any department or college may submit a proposal. The proposal must be reviewed by the dean of the college from where it originated. While there is flexibility on what activities the proposed event/project can entail (e.g., seminars, workshops), the proposed event/project must include:

- Focus on natural, social, and applied sciences with emphasis on health and life sciences
- A presentation open to the general public
- Student engagement with and access to the speaker(s)
- Faculty engagement with and access to the speaker(s)
- A budget for the event/project
- Alternate speakers if the preferred speaker or speakers are not available
- Special invitations issued to high school students as determined by the Admissions Office

Preferably, the speaker(s) would be on campus for more than one day.

Administration and Selection
The Provost’s Office will administer the Call for Proposals in winter quarter and receive all proposals by the end of spring quarter. Review and selection will be conducted by the Council of Deans during the summer with the announcement of the award made early fall quarter. Administrative support for arranging and administering the event/project will be provided by the Provost’s Office, with assistance from the proposing department(s)/college(s). The event/project may take place during the following spring quarter of that academic year or the fall quarter of the following academic year.
